Mind reading and fortune telling are natural tendencies of the brain that can help us navigate social situations and anticipate potential dangers.

However, it can also lead to misunderstandings and relationship problems when our assumptions are incorrect or negative predictions happen. It's important to be aware of these tendencies so that we can take steps to address them in a balanced and rational manner.

Fortune telling is the act of anticipating or predicting future events, and it can be a helpful tool to prepare for potential challenges.

On the other hand, sometimes it can also lead to unnecessary stress and anxiety when the predictions are negative or unlikely to occur. By being mindful of this tendency, you can take steps to address it and focus on the present moment.

Mind reading is the act of imagining or anticipating what someone else is thinking, it has its benefits in social situations, but it can also lead to misunderstandings and relationship problems when our assumptions are incorrect.

By being aware of this tendency, you can take steps to communicate with others and validate their thoughts and feelings.

These tendencies are normal, and it's not about eliminating them but managing them in a way that doesn't negatively impact our mental and emotional well-being or our ability to make good decisions.
