The Fine Structure of the Nervous System Alan Peters, Sanford L. Palay, Henry deF. Webster, 1991 This book represents the most complete and authoritative description on the fine structure of the nervous system available in a single volume Beginning with background material on the neuron the book then examines specific portions of the nerve cell and of the various supporting cells Structure is first described in a general fashion followed by detailed coverage of the fine structure of each component with full discussion of how the structural features relate to their functions Extensively revised and rewritten this book will bring readers up to date with the many important developments that have taken place since publication of the previous edition It includes over 130 electron micrographs and line drawings many of which are new to this edition

Cerebellar Cortex S.L. Palay, V. Chan-Palay, 2012-12-06 The origins of this book go back to the first electron microscopic studies of the central nervous system The cerebellar cortex was from the first an object of close study in the electron microscope repeating in modern cytology and neuroanatomy the role it had in the hands of RAMON y CAJAL at the end of the nineteenth century The senior author vividly remembers a day early in 1953 when GEORGE PALADE with whom he was then working showed him an electron micrograph of a cerebellar glomerulus saying That is what the synapse should look like It is true that the tissue was swollen and the mitochondria were exploded but all of the essentials of synaptic structure were visible At that time small fragments of tissue fixed by immersion in osmium tetroxide and embedded in methacrylate were laboriously sectioned with glass knives without any predetermined orientation and then examined in the electron microscope After much searching favorably preserved areas were studied at the cytological level in order to recognize the parts of neurons and characterize them Such procedures dependent upon random sections and uncontrollable selection by a highly erratic technique of preservation precluded any systematic investigation of the organization of a particular nucleus or region of the central nervous system It was difficult enough to distinguish neurons from the neuroglia Zoological Record, 1899 Zoological Record is published annually in separate sections The first of these is Comprehensive Zoology followed by sections recording a year's literature relating to a Phylum or Class of the Animal Kingdom The final section contains the new genera and subgenera indexed in the volume Each section of a volume lists the sections of that volume Fine Structure of the Nervous System palay peters (s et al), 1991 Research Grants Index National Institutes of Health (U.S.). Division of Research Grants, 1967 The Central Nervous System of Vertebrates Rudolf Nieuwenhuys, Hendrik Jan Donkelaar, Charles Nicholson, 1998 This comprehensive reference is clearly destined to become the definitive anatomical basis for all molecular neuroscience research The three volumes provide a complete overview and comparison of the structural organisation of all vertebrate groups ranging from amphioxus and lamprey through fishes amphibians and birds to mammals This thus allows a systematic treatment of the concepts and methodology found in modern comparative neuroscience Neuroscientists comparative morphologists and anatomists will all benefit from 1 200 detailed and standardised neuroanatomical drawings the illustrations were painstakingly hand drawn by a team of graphic designers specially commissioned by the authors over a period of 25 years functional correlations of vertebrate brains concepts and methodology of modern comparative neuroscience five full colour posters giving an overview of the central nervous system of the vertebrates ideal for mounting and display This monumental work is and will remain unique the only source of such brilliant illustrations at both the macroscopic and microscopic levels
