The Geometry of Ecological Interactions Ulf Dieckmann, Richard Law, Johan A. J. Metz, 2000-05-04 The field of theoretical ecology has expanded dramatically in the last few years This volume gives detailed coverage of the main developing areas in spatial ecological theory and is written by world experts in the field Integrating the perspective from field ecology with novel methods for simplifying spatial complexity it offers a didactical treatment with a gradual increase in mathematical sophistication from beginning to end In addition the volume features introductions to those fundamental phenomena in spatial ecology where emerging spatial patterns influence ecological outcomes quantitatively An appreciation of the consequences of this is required if ecological theory is to move on in the 21st century Written for researchers and graduate students in theoretical evolutionary and spatial ecology applied mathematics and spatial statistics it will be seen as a ground breaking treatment of modern spatial ecological theory

Integrating Ecology and Evolution in a Spatial Context Jonathan Silvertown, Janis Antonovics, 2001-08 The profound consequences of the deceptively obvious statement that plants stand still but their genes don't are only just becoming clear In this volume an international team of authors experts in the field of population biology aim to advance our understanding of ecological and evolutionary processes by integrating them within a common frame of reference space Processes operating at three different spatial scales are examined that of the population metapopulation and the geographical range Themes that recur at these different scales include spatial population dynamics population genetics at boundaries the imprint of spatial population dynamics upon genetic structure adaptation evolution of mating systems and the consequences of population genetics for ecological dynamics Whilst the focus is largely on plants the questions addressed are equally applicable to animals It will be a valuable tool for researchers and advanced students not only in this field but also evolutionary biology and resource management

Adaptive Speciation Ulf Dieckmann, 2004-09-02 First published in 2004 this book by internationally recognized leaders in the field clarifies how adaptive processes rather than geographic isolation can cause speciation

Evolutionary Ecology of Plant-plant Interactions Christian Damgaard, 2004 Concepts and simple empirical models that are useful in the study of the quantitative aspects of evolutionary ecology of plant-plant interactions are discussed and developed in this monograph by Christian Damgaard and the use of simple empirical models in the statistical analysis of plant ecological data is exemplified
