Effective Teaching And Learning Of Writing Current Trends In Research:

Effective Teaching and Learning of Writing Gert Rijlaarsdam, Huub van den Bergh, 1996 Effective Teaching and Learning of Writing describes the current state of the art in research on the way in which children acquire skills in written text production and defines the features of instruction that can play a part in teaching such skills The book discusses research by reflective practitioners the use of computers in the solution of educational problems and formal research into effective approaches to the teaching of writing in primary and secondary education In the concluding section feedback procedures and effective peer group interaction between pupils and interaction between pupil and teacher are focused upon

The SAGE Handbook of Writing Development Roger Beard, Debra Myhill, Jeni Riley, Martin Nystrand, 2009-07-09 Writing development is currently the focus of substantial international debate because it is the aspect of literacy education that has been least responsive to central government and state reforms Teaching approaches in writing have been slower to change than those in teaching reading and pupil attainment in writing has increased at a much more modest rate than pupil attainment in reading This handbook critically examines research and theoretical issues that impact on writing development from the early years through to adulthood It provides those researching or teaching literacy with one of the most academically authoritative and comprehensive works in the field With expert contributors from across the world the book represents a detailed and valuable overview of a complex area of study

Reasonableness and Effectiveness in Argumentative Discourse Frans H. van Eemeren, 2015-08-27 This volume presents 50 contributions on the themes of reasonableness and effectiveness and their connections which are central issues in argumentation theory It discusses van Eemeren's views on the study of argumentation the approach to argumentation adopted in pragma dialectics pragma dialectical perspectives on the dialectical and pragmatic dimensions of argumentative discourse the notion of strategic maneuvering the pragma dialectical method of analyzing argumentative discourse the treatment of fallacies as violations of rules for critical discussion pragma dialectical views on context the role of logic verbal indicators of argumentative moves and argument schemes and the process of writing and rewriting argumentative texts The pragma dialectical quantitative approach to empirical research on argumentative discourse is illustrated by reporting on selected illustrative experimental studies as well as qualitative studies of historical cases

Past, Present, and Future Contributions of Cognitive Writing Research to Cognitive Psychology Virginia Wise Berninger, 2012 This volume tells the story of research on the cognitive processes of writing from the perspectives of the early pioneers the contemporary contributors and visions of the future for the field It includes the very latest in findings from neuroscience and experimental cognitive psychology and provides the most comprehensive current overview on this topic

Learning to Write Effectively: Current Trends in European Research Mark Torrance, Denis Alamargot, Montserrat Castelló, Franck Ganier, Otto Kruse, Anne Mangen, Liliana Tolchinsky, Luuk van Waes, 2012-09-05 This book provides a detailed overview of current or recent research exploring a wide range of ideas theories and practices around written text production European researchers from a broad range of disciplines brought together under the European Research Network on Learning to Write Effectively were instructed to contribute short papers summarising their current activity The papers are grouped around the four main themes The first deals with issues around the development of basic low level writing skills mainly in the early years of education The second section focuses directly on issues around the teaching and learning of writing This is divided into five parts that describe evaluations of different forms of writing instruction research exploring the processes by which writers learn methods of text assessment in educational contexts research exploring the effects of various learner and teacher variables on the development of writing skill and conceptions of and variation in educational text genres The third section reports research exploring effective document design The final section has a main focus on tools for exploring the writing process

Teaching Undergraduate Science Linda C. Hodges, 2023-07-03 This book is written for all science or engineering faculty who have ever found themselves baffled and frustrated by their undergraduate students lack of engagement and learning The author an experienced scientist faculty member and educational consultant addresses these issues with the knowledge of faculty interests constraints and day to day concerns in mind Drawing from the research on learning she offers faculty new ways to think about the struggles their science students face She then provides a range of evidence based teaching strategies that can make the time faculty spend in the classroom more productive and satisfying Linda Hodges reviews the various learning problems endemic to teaching science explains why they are so common and persistent and presents a digest of key ideas and strategies to address them based on the research she has undertaken into the literature on the cognitive sciences and education Recognizing that faculty have different views about teaching different comfort levels with alternative teaching approaches and are often pressed for time Linda Hodges takes these constraints into account by first offering a framework for thinking purposefully about course design and teaching choices and then providing a range of strategies to address very specific teaching barriers whether it be students motivation engagement in class ability to problem solve their reading comprehension or laboratory research or writing skills Except for the first and last chapters the other chapters in this book stand on their own i e can be read in any order and address a specific challenge students have in learning and doing science Each chapter summarizes the research explaining why students struggle and concludes by offering several teaching options categorized by how easy or difficult they are to implement Some for example can work in a large lecture class without a great expenditure of time others may require more preparation and a more adventurous approach to teaching Each strategy is accompanied by a table categorizing its likely impact how much time it will take in class or out and how difficult it will be to implement Like scientific research teaching works best when faculty start with a goal in mind plan an approach building on the literature use well tested methodologies and analyze results for future trials Linda Hodges message is that with such intentional thought and a bit of effort faculty can succeed in helping many more students gain exciting new skills and abilities whether those students are potential scientists or physicians or entrepreneurs Her book serves as a mini compendium of current research as well as a protocol manual a readily accessible guide to the literature the best practices known to date and a framework for thinking about teaching

Machine Scoring of Student Essays Patricia Freitag Ericsson, Richard Haswell, 2006-03-15 The current trend toward machine scoring of student work Ericsson and Haswell argue has created an emerging issue with implications for higher education across the disciplines but with particular importance for those in English departments and in administration The academic community has been silent on the issue some would say excluded from it while the commercial entities who develop essay scoring software have been very active Machine Scoring of Student Essays is the first volume to seriously consider the educational mechanisms and consequences of this trend and it offers important discussions from some of the leading scholars in writing assessment Reading and evaluating student writing is a time consuming process yet it is a vital part of both student placement and coursework at post secondary institutions In recent years commercial computer evaluation programs have been developed to score student essays in both of these contexts Two year colleges have been especially drawn to these programs but four year institutions are moving to them as well because of the cost savings they promise Unfortunately to a large extent the programs have been written and institutions are installing them without attention to their instructional validity or adequacy Since the education software companies are moving so rapidly into what they perceive as a promising new market a wider discussion of machine scoring is vital if scholars hope to influence development and or implementation of the programs being created What is needed then is a critical resource to help teachers and administrators evaluate programs they might be considering and to more fully envision the instructional consequences of adopting them And this is the resource that Ericsson and Haswell are providing here
