Scientific Inquiry Cycle: Review

Science helps communities solve problems by applying knowledge and creating things that "solve" real-world issues such as water quality or waste management using science to make or improve solutions that have a positive impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective solution.

Designing solutions requires considering various constraints, such as budget, time, and safety concerns. Sometimes, important parts of a solution might be challenging, expensive, or too important to weigh their risks and benefits. For example, creating materials for a house that they affect its look and ease of use, cannot influence the effectiveness of the solution.

After identifying a solution, determining how it works, what constraints affected it, and any compromises that have already been or should be made on the way. Communication, using design models, and reflecting on the results of the solution are important steps. The process of testing, sharing, and evaluating locally encourages responsible decision-making and helps communities thrive.
