Global Knowledge Networks And International Development:

Global Knowledge Networks and International Development Simon Maxwell, Dr Diane L Stone, 2004-08-02 This volume draws together leading experts from academia think tanks and donor agencies to examine the impact of transnational knowledge networks in the formulation of local national and global policy in the field of international development and transition studies These leading contributors pay particular attention to the global reach of research and the manner in which knowledge is incorporated into and shapes transnational policy domains They show how the knowledge agenda has become a central part of the discourse of both developing societies and advanced economies Governments and international organizations devote considerable financial resources to both in house and contracted research This volume will be of great interest to students researchers and policy makers concerned with global policy global governance and development

Global Knowledge Networks and International Development, 2004 Knowledge Actors and Transnational Governance D. Stone, 2013-08-29 Diane Stone addresses the network alliances or partnerships of international organisations with knowledge organisations and networks Moving beyond more common studies of industrial public private partnerships she addresses how and why international organisations and global policy actors need to incorporate ideas expertise and scientific opinion into their global programmes Rather than assuming that the encouragement for evidence informed policy in global and regional institutions of governance is an indisputable public good she queries the influence of expert actors in the growing number of part private or semi public policy networks Networked Governance and Transatlantic Relations Gabriella Paar-Jakli, 2014-04-29 In today's complex and interconnected world scholars of international relations seek to better understand challenges spurred by intensified global communication and interaction The complex connectedness of modern society and politics compels us to investigate the pattern of interconnections among actors who inhabit social and political spaces Gabriella Paar-Jakli's study aims to advance theory and practice by examining the networks used by specialists in North America and Europe to achieve their policy goals in the area of science and technology Her book suggests that to overcome policy problems transnationally three critical factors should be considered First as science and technology policy becomes increasingly critical to resolving global issues it should be regarded as an integral element of the foreign policy process Second as liberal international relations theory argues the increasing role of NGOs must be taken seriously alongside states as vital agents of policy reform Third as transatlantic relations remain center to maintaining the global order they must be reconsidered Paar-Jakli assesses the role of digital networks as facilitators of regional cooperation Utilizing various techniques of social network analysis her research indicates an active and structurally discernible network in cyberspace among transatlantic organizations and demonstrates the role of virtual networks as facilitators of cooperative arrangements in transatlantic relations Paar-Jakli's original research uses social network analysis to investigate transatlantic cooperation a new approach that will be noteworthy to network and transatlantic scholars as well as policymakers Canada and Global
