

How to Get to Hardscrabble (pop. 623)

Likely as not you're coming from the south, or head north about two, two-and-a-half hours. You'll know your first turn when you see the lake on the right, but keep your eyes peeled between May when the trees are in bud, and October when the leaves are falling, because you can't see the lake for the trees. Once you have your bearings, look for a right—not the one that ends at the old Democrat farm, but the one that goes past the fire-pine swamp. A stone's throw after the spot where Clyde Mason hit the twelve-point buck that wrecked his Ford pickup, hang a left. (Don't look for Clyde's track. They towed it away an hour or so after it happened, about six years ago.) Finally, you come to the bridge. Cross over, but if it's nighttime, you might not realize you're on the bridge because it looks just like a road with a river underneath. You can make a right after that, but the next one is better because it takes you onto Brush Hollow Road and over Daniel's Hill, which gives you a lovely view of the Village. You'll know you're on the right track when you see the big field with the pond. When you see the field, then you're just down the road again...
